Follow these simple steps and your puppy will always come to you when called. This is one of the first steps to a perfect and obedient dog.

10 Steps to Get Your Puppy to Come

Step 1:

When you say "come," as soon as the puppy looks at you, tell them they are good. This will make them want to come to you even faster.

Step 2:

Bend down or squat, open your arms and have a friendly face when you call. You want to display a very inviting picture to the puppy.

Step 3:

When you say "come" it should be said assertively but never in an angry way. Then switch to a high-pitch happy voice to encourage the puppy to come.

Step 4:

Never punish your dog when he finally gets to you, NO MATER WHAT HE HAS DONE. If you punish the dog, he will think that you are punishing him for coming.

Step 5:

When the puppy comes to you, gently restrain him by the collar and give him a treat. Release the puppy instantly and say "okay" or "free".

Step 6:

Never chase your puppy. Instead have him chase you.

10 Steps to Get Your Puppy to Come

Step 7:

Never say "come" if you know that the puppy is too distracted. Get your puppy's attention first by clapping your hands or saying "hey" and then call him to you.

Step 8:

If you say "come" and the puppy ignores you, run in the opposite direction from your puppy and as you say "hey puppy," clap your hands to get the puppy to chase you.

Step 9:

Call your puppy to do fun things, not for things that they aren't going to like.

Step 10:

When you start teaching the "come" command, don't worry about having the puppy sit perfectly in front of you.
